- After the visit by Dr. Ogonda there was a suggestion of restoring the tourism site known as Nakyegalika sacred site a cleaning exercise was carried out on 19th May 2010.

- Six model farmers were selected and demonstrations were made in the compounds of their homes.
- Community members were sensitized and trained on the wise use of the lake for sustainability and this attracted 25 participants
- On 21st May 2010 Mr. Stefan Mielke from Global Nature Fund made a monitoring tour of the Project and appreciated the developments so far made, he also visited the cultural site of Nakyegalika which he advised would be good to promote tourism in the area with its unique feature and history.

Achievements

- Opening and preparation of the demonstration plot measuring one acre has been done and a nursery bed established and seeds were planted.
- Cooperation has been created among the district and community leadership.
- Regional and international recognition of Lake Wamala.
- Refurbishment of the cultural site has attracted people from outside the district hence an increase in tourism.
- Although the Project is still in its early stages but there has been feasible change within the community.

Challenges

- The Project was started when the rainy season was coming to an end.
- Some few Community Members have not been cooperative in the implementation of the Project.
- The drought season prolonged, Irrigating the Nursery beds was a big challenge
- The soils in the area are a sandy type and semi fertile, which called for application of fertilizer which was expensive.
- Inadequate funding

Recommendations

- Clear memorandum and terms of reference between the donor and the implementing organization should be drawn for better implementation
- Replication of a similar project to other sites is a must to reduce pressure on the lake and improve people's incomes and livelihoods.
- Other programmes to promote proper maintenance of the lake and sanitation would blend well with this project like ECOSAN toilets
- Exchange visits should also be encouraged among inhabitants of lakes in the region to learn through experience sharing
